

Research Showcase 2016

Tell us how your research makes an impact!

Our annual Research Showcase is a great opportunity for researchers to share their passion for their work, practice their presentation skills and engage with the wider audience.

Present a poster that clearly describes your work and you could be the winner who will walk away with attractive cash prizes.

Why enter?

- gain confidence in communicating your research
- develop effective communication and presentation skills
- network with other researchers and build your profile
- win one or even both cash prizes

Entries are invited from postgraduate research students (MRes, Mphil, Doctoral students).

How to enter?

1 ENTER A PRESS RELEASE

To apply to take part in the showcase, submit a press release outlining your research and why it is interesting to the wider community. Your release could also report any preliminary findings if appropriate. Maximum of 250 words excluding title and contact details. The press release should not include any technical jargon and should be written for a general audience. The press release should clearly display the researcher's name and school/department, and the title of the press release.
